

Ranee Alison Spina

Award-Winning Author/Speaker
TV Personality/Entertainer

Former Relationship Expert on NBC's
The Other Half with Dick Clark & Mario Lopez

Relationship on the rocks?

"He may be a jerk,
a wimp, or
a couch potato,"
says Rane Spina,
"but remember,
YOU chose him."

According to the National Marriage Project, of all U.S. marriages, nearly two-thirds are ended by women, proving Rane's theory that women are choosing to walk down the aisle with the wrong man, at the wrong time.

Most speakers proclaim themselves to be "Inspirational or Motivational." Rane strives to be an "Instigator," determined to make her audiences think and act differently about dating, love and marriage. Rane's mission is to increase the percentage of fearless, intelligent, open-eyed, experienced, confident, loving and lovable women in the world.

Rane brings common sense to the always-popular topics of dating, marriage and self-worth. Her book, I AM Before "I Do," is an empowering conversation that is uncompromisingly honest.

Some of Rane's gems:

- "Having a relationship is not more important than having a self."
- "A reason, a season, or a lifetime - men will be in your life for one of these three."
- "Do you continually lay down the carpet before you paint the walls?"
- "Cole slaw is a side dish. The free side or free extra that comes with a main meal. If you enjoy being a side dish, then by all means hook up with a guy that has tons of baggage."
- "Wrapping yourself around a man's life is a gymnastic routine that needs new choreography."
- "There is a lid for every pot. You need to figure out what kind of pot you are before you can find a lid that "fits."

As a solo guest, or part of a panel, Ranee will stir up the dialogue and touch your audience's hearts.

Topic Suggestions:

- Using Your Shoe Shopping Skills to Find a Fabulous Man
- The 4 Things You Absolutely Need to Find a Lifelong Mate
- Auditioning for a Man: Do You Want to Be His Maid? His Mother? Or His Life-long Companion?
- 4 Reasons Why So Many 35+ Women are Still Unhappily Single
- Why the First 2 Months of A Relationship Are the Least Important
- The 4.5 Factors of Relationship Compatibility
- 5 Steps to Improving Your Chances for a Successful Marriage
- Just about anything related to dating, love and relationships

"A "must-read", for anyone considering getting married. I AM Before "I Do," is filled with a multitude of brilliant messages, presented with wisdom, honesty and humor. Ranee is a rare and powerful teacher and gives her readers the courage to choose wisely before they make the most important decision of their lives: whom they should marry. This book is an incredible gift to women and men everywhere, and I will recommend it to all of my clients!" - Rhea Sheinin, L.M.F.T., Licensed Psychotherapist

"Ranee is a natural- sexy, effervescent and clever- qualities sure to make audiences come alive. The most successful speakers are also 'show people' who create excitement not only with words, but with spirit." - Arthur G. Insana, Audio Producer/Director, Time Warner Audio/Time Life, Inc.

"Ranee cracks me up! Her views on the male/female thing are so entertaining that she keeps me talking and laughing for hours. She reinforces something that I always have believed about relationships - we are all dysfunctional and need therapy BEFORE getting married, FOR THE SAKE OF THE CHILDREN!" - Sinbad, Comedian

"Thank you for writing the book. It's like finding that your best friend has written a book, and you get to read what she has to say with a smile and knowing recognition of the situations. Even though you say it's not a book on self-confidence, I think it is. I've had some epiphanies of what the hell have I been thinking the past few years! It's the change in my mind that made me wonder why I've given so much power to men, when I'm the one with the things to offer!" - Caroline, single, 30-something

About Ranee

Ranee A. Spina is a true "relationship expert." For 15 years as a marketing communications director, she aligned the "who's selling" with the "who's buying." Ranee's business success depended on her ability to strategically align partners. Now her work is about empowering women to "strategically align" themselves with the right men to lower the divorce rate.

Ranee has succeeded in changing the mindset of countless men and women, including thousands of impressionable college students who are about to embark on adulthood... and is on a mission to give readers and audiences around the world the distinct advantage when making relationship choices. "In short," says Ranee, "I think women have the power to drastically reduce our insane divorce rate. I am tired of women blaming men."

Raised in the Philadelphia suburbs, Ranee attended New York University's College of Business and Public Administration. She moved to Los Angeles to be in the entertainment business, and now lives in "The OC" where she is working towards a PhD in Social Psychology.

To Book Ranee

For a Speaking Engagement Contact:
RAZ Productions
(818) 458-2116
admin@iambeforeido.com

For TV, Radio, or Print Media Interview Contact:
Joanna Brody at Brody Public Relations
(310) 582-0085
joanna@brody-pr.com